God's Instruction Manual

Because you are not the creator of yourself, your soul-spirit, a "machine" sort to speak, you can not perform functions of the machine from within yourself because you didn't build the spirit-soul "machine".
Also, you, the spirit-soul, didn't write the instruction manual on how to use the machine. The instruction manual states in detail, the best ways to have full understanding and use of the machine, or "living life" as it were.
Your instruction manual is the Word. The instructions always come with the machine to understand and perform all functions it is capable of performing.

Even though you might have read the manual, you have a choice on how you wish to use the machine in any way you wish.
The instruction manual is precise in its simplest instruction explained by way of the "testing" stage of the machine. Which is Jesus living the instructions set forth by the creator of the equipment.
Now the perfectly tested and created "machine" by way of Jesus, the instruction manual tester, is complete and no other instructions are necessary.
Other spirit-souls that had earlier models, (which the machine and instructions have never changed), it so seems to want to have additional input or a different way of explaining the original instruction manual set forth by the designer-creator-tester (God), of said machine, (spirit-soul).
That is perfectly fine if the spirit-soul understands the original instruction manual. But then again, what is the need for additional information pertaining to the operation of the machine?
Wouldn't you think that the instructions were complete and needed no extra instruction unless the spirit-soul doesn't understand some of the instructions and feels the need for input from others that previously used that same machine?
Think about it.

MJI (LightWorker)